* 2015 Côteaux Giennois Blanc Domaine Montbenoit

With the cost of vineyard land climbing out of sight in Sancerre and Pouilly-Fumé, Loire vignerons are turning to newer, less famous plots that share the same kind of limestone soils. The closest one at hand is Côteaux Giennois across the river from Sancerre, producing a very similar style of Sauvignon Blanc. This wine is vibrant and fresh with lovely floral notes that hang seductively on a very good finish. A sexy little wine.

Great with oysters and all kinds of finned fish, calamari and tuna tartare.

* 2013 Gewurztraminer 'Lyra' Nals Margreid (Alto Adige)

Nobody rides the fence on Gewurztraminer. People love it or hate it. But even those who like it often won't order it in a restaurant because they're not sure how sweet that particular bottle will be. The 'Lyra' is fully dry but possesses those rich, flowery aromas and flavours that Gewurtz lovers swoon over. The Nals Margreid winery is one of the best producers in Alto Adige, a feat made more remarkable by the fact they are also a cooperative representing 150 small growers, the best-run cooperative I have ever seen. If you're skeptical, check out their website and see how gorgeous their winery is! These folks know how to spend their money. Try this heady white with tuna tartare, the endive salad or the Vadouvan chicken.

* 2012 Semillon Stratus (Niagara-on-the-Lake, Niagara)

The Ontario wine scene was reborn in 1975 when Inniskillin was awarded the province's first boutique winery licence. Before that, it had regressed to the nadir of such brands as Lonesome Charlie and Old Niagara Dry Sherry. Vile stuff. But it's important to remember that as a serious wine region we're only 40 years old and still finding our way.

If this Stratus Semillon is any indication, we're well along that path. Dry but rich and a mile wide, this white easily rivals Californian Chardonnays in breadth and scope with spicy barrel tone and gorgeous honey, quince and papaya fruit that goes on a long time. Try it with rich shellfish dishes or any white-fleshed fish.

* 2015 Assyrtiko 'Wild Ferment' [Organic] Gaia (Santorini, Greece)

There is a theory that the ancient Minoan culture on Crete may have been destroyed by a tsunami created by a massive volcanic explosion on neighbouring Santorini. What is certain is that the soil on Santorini is fairly young and very volcanic with high levels of ambient sulfur. What this means, where winemaking is concerned, is that depending on natural yeasts for barrel fermentation is more perilous here than almost anywhere else.

Gaia winemaker (and University of Bordeaux enology professor) Dr. Yiannis Paraskevopoulos estimates he loses one-third of his 'Wild Ferment' barrels each year due to stuck fermentations, which is a bloody shame because this is easily Greece's best white wine. Made from the intensely mineral grape Assyrtiko, this tastes like Cru-level white Burgundy made with a hammer. Very cool stuff.

* 2013 Fleurie Cru 'La Cadole de Laurent Savoye' Domaine des Combiers

To my mind the prettiest of all the Beaujolais Crus, the best Fleuries have a vivid mix of musky rose and fresh raspberries on the nose that show up for a playdate on your tongue as well. This lovely version by Laurent Savoye fills that prescription perfectly and adds a sweet seam of raspberry jam to the lively palate too. A great accompaniment to patés and charcuterie, Beaujolais of this quality is also a delicious partner with steak tartare and duck disbes.

* 2010 La Clape 'Les Bartelles' Mas du Soleilla (Languedoc)

This estate has a glorious view of the Mediterranean and the vines luxuriate in all that sunshine - but cool ocean breezes keep the grapes from becoming too leathery or raisined. Made from a blend of 80% Syrah and 20% Grenache, the 'Les Bartelles' cuvée has size and scope but isn't overblown or out of balance. Rich and deep, with a gorgeous spiciness that expands in the glass, this is a great accompaniment to all red meats, especially lamb. And the Rhôneish blend can cope beautifully with tomato dishes, too. Delicious.

This dusky beauty reflects the new confidence growing every day in Abruzzo. The nose exhibits inky swirls of black olive over black berry fruit wrapped in a modern veil of light French oak. The palate is smooth and rich but is still distinctly Italian in style and has a great finish. Think Sophia Loren in some countryside romp. Great with tomato dishes, beef stews and other braises, anything with horns on it, really!

One of the most exciting upcoming regions of a reinvigorated Spanish wine industry, Bierzo is located in the northwest corner of Spain between Portugal and the Atlantic, not far from the finish of the Santiago de Compostela pilgrimage route. Made from a sturdy local grape called Mencia that has really benefitted from both modern viticultural and vinification techniques, Bierzo has become a lightly chewy vibrant red with some roughshod finesse and has helped to put the province of Castilla y León on the fine wine map. Try this with red meats and game, richer pastas and charcuterie.

Here's something you don't see every day! The Grenache vines from the Besson Vineyard on the east side of the Santa Cruz Mountains were planted ungrafted in 1910. The crew at Birichino have fashioned a very 'Vacqueyras' expression of Grenache with a dusty, dry herb topnote above licorice-tinged red fruits untrampled by excessive oak influence. Lamb, olives and game birds all sing lovely harmonies with this offering.

* 2012 Malbec 'Old Vine' [Organic] Versado (Mendoza, Argentina)

This plush, rich mouth-filling red is the excellent creation of two local Ontario winemakers: husband and wife Ann Sperling (Southbrook) and Peter Gamble (Ravine Vineyards). They spent years looking for just the right combination of old Mendoza Malbec vines that could be converted to organic farming methods. The 2012 'Old Vine' cuvée has a savoury topnote over dense black fruit with classic Mendoza ginger cookie spice notes that linger long after the wine is gone. Try it with red meats, especially beef, and calves liver.
